|-----------------------|--|---|
| 2020 – Present | PhD Pharmaceutical Sciences | Cyprus International University |
| 2019 – 2020 | PhD Pharmaceutical Microbiology | Ankara University |
| 2017 – 2019 | MSc Chemistry | Eastern Mediterranean University |
| | Thesis: Anatomical, Chemical and Antimicrobial Activity of Corchorus olitorius L. (Molokhia) | |
| | Aim of the Project: The aim of the study is to show the anatomical structure and using different extraction of Corchorus olitorius L. to show the antimicrobial activities on a different bacteria (gram positive and gram negative). | |
| | Result of the Project: The results obtained in this study appear to confirm the antibacterial potential of Corchorus olitorius L. leaves, as well as its beneficial in the treatment of related diseases. | |
| 2006 – 2011 | BSc Medical Biochemistry | Kingston University London |
| | Thesis: Finding potential antimicrobial activities of natural products | |
| | Aim of the Project: The aim of the study is to show the antimicrobial activities of Folium Myrti, Thymus, Lavandulaangustifolia, Quercusrobur preparations on a different bacteria (gram positive and gram negative) and investigations into the antimicrobial effects of plants on HUMAN HEALTH by adding a metal ion; Copper Sulphate. | |
| | Result of the Project: Natural products showed antimicrobial effect against the specific bacteria. When copper sulphate applied together with the natural products, antimicrobial activities increased and resulted in complete growth inhibition of S. epidermis and P. mirabilis. Lowest antimicrobial activity was observed against the S.aureus in the combination of copper sulphate with Quercusrobur. | |
