Cyprus 2015, Nicosia, Cyprus

Cyprus 2015 is an inter-communal initiative which came into life in 2009 under Interpeace's (www.interpeace.org) umbrella. The initiative was directed by Ahmet Sözen and his Co-Director, Spyros Christou. The initiative has been supported by the UNDP-ACT as well as the EU Commission Representation in Cyprus. So far, the initiative which employed 15 people produced 3 island-wide public opinion polls on the issues of the peace-negotiations. The results of the polls have been used by the UN Secretary General in his reports to the Security Council as well as in his public statements. The initiative has produced two reports together with policy recommendations on two subjects: (1) Hopes and Fears in Solving the Cyprus Problem and (2) Sustainable Development in Unified Cyprus. In parallel to the two reports, the initiative has also produced two documentary films on these subjects. The initiative was transformed to the first island-wide think-tank in 2013, called SeeD – Center for Sustainable Peace and Democratic Development (<http://www.seedsofpeace.eu>). Currently, SeeD produces policy briefs on the current island-wide problems based on participatory research where the relevant stakeholders are involved. In addition, SeeD is presently engaged in producing jointly with UNDP-ACT in Cyprus ‘Social Cohesion and Reconciliation’ (SCORE) Index which is an innovative approach for measuring the impact of peace-building efforts in conflict-ridden societies. Furthermore, SeeD has developed Participatory Polling as an action research methodology through which the general public is consulted on policy related issues, using a questionnaire that has been designed with the contribution of societal and political stakeholders, whereby the results then serve as a basis for public dialogue and in support of the policy making process.

DIRECTOR

Cyprus Policy Center, Famagusta, Cyprus, 2004 – Present

The mission of CPC (Cyprus Policy Center) is to contribute to the solution of domestic and international problems and promote regional and global peace through encouraging participatory democracy, and advancing the think tank concept. As a first step of its mission, ISTAM is dedicated to contribute to the enhancement of Turkish foreign policy, the enrichment of open and democratic society in Turkey, and the establishment of permanent peace in the region.
